A. INTRODUCTION

This community service program, organized by STMIK Indonesia Banda Aceh, is a two-month program for students. The goal of this activity is for students to contribute to and engage with the community. Furthermore, as young intellectuals, students are expected to develop themselves as agents or leaders of change who intelligently and effectively resolve issues facing their communities (Yudiana and Fitria, 2019:402).

The implementation of the Tri Dharma of Higher Education, one of which is community service. This is stated in the Law of the Republic of Indonesia Number 12 of 2012, Article 1 (11) concerning Higher Education, which states that community service is an activity of the academic community that utilizes science and technology to advance the welfare of society and improve the life of the nation. Student service activities are expected to be a driving force in the development of applied research aimed at helping solve problems in society, in addition to developing students' sensitivity to feelings and social conditions (Syardiansah in Hariana, et al., 2021:11).

In an effort to improve the nation's life, one of the activities students need to undertake is education. Students are expected to be able to develop community service programs.

A diverse range of activities, including one that addresses the educational aspect for children. STMIK Indonesia Banda chose the location of Kaju Village, Baitussalam District, Aceh Besar Regency. Kaju Village is geographically located near the coast, with residents making their living as fishermen, gardeners, livestock raisers, and traders.

Before the students of STMIK Indonesia Banda Aceh conducted community service in Kaju Village, Baitussalam District, Aceh Besar Regency, they conducted observations and initial interviews in the field where the community service targets would be implemented by the students. From the results of these observations, it was discovered that the educational facilities available were still limited, including only one PAUD, 1 Kindergarten (TK) , and one elementary school (SD). For secondary schools such as junior high and senior high schools (SLTP) there were no schools in Kaju Village, Baitussalam District, Aceh Besar Regency. To continue their education to junior high and senior high school levels, children must attend schools in neighboring villages closest to their own. The average education level of the residents is high school graduates (SMA). In addition, interviews conducted with several residents also found that there were still 3rd grade elementary school (SD) students who were not yet fluent in reading and arithmetic. From these findings, community service students in Kaju Village, Baitussalam District, Aceh Besar Regency were directed to create an additional learning activity program for elementary school students from grades 1 to 6. In this case, community service students collaborated with the village government to implement an additional learning activity program for elementary school students.

It is hoped that with this counseling, students can develop a community service activity program in the field of education that can help increase students' interest in learning at the elementary school (SD) level.
